Soviets Renew Attack On Security Act

Accuse U. S. Of Subversive Activities

Moscow, Saturday (AP) — The Soviet press published today the text of a second Soviet note to the United States protesting against the mutual security act and demanding its repeal.

The Russians again charged the United States is financing subversive activities against Russia through the MSA.

The new note accused the U. S. of violating the Roosevelt-Litvinoff agreement of 1933 which established diplomatic relations between the United States and the Soviet Union.

It was an answer to the American reply of Dec. 20 to the original Soviet note on the subject.

(In Washington the State department said it had rejected the new Russian protest.

(Lincoln White, a State department press officer, said "we rejected the new Russian allegations completely and stood by our previous answer."

(On Dec. 20, the United States denied it is trying to promote subversion against the Soviet government through the mutual security act.

(Furthermore, the U. S. note at that time said, such "false charges" of American interference in Soviet affairs "come with singular ill-grace" from a regime which has for many years "supported subversive activities" against the American government.

(The United States note of Dec. 20 specifically rejected as baseless Russian charges that a 100 million dollar appropriation in the mutual security act to help the victims of Communist rule constitutes subversion against the Soviet government.

(Assistance of this nature, the United States said, is in keeping with the traditional United States policy of helping victims of oppression. In this instance, those eastern Europeans who have escaped or may escape to the free world."

(The mutual security act is the legislation under which military assistance is being given Western European nations to erect a bulwark against any Communist aggression.)

(The Soviet note said the American reply was "contrary to fact." It denies "the aggressive character of this law and defends it," the note declared.

It denied categorically that Russia is engaged in support of subversive activities against the United States.

Justice Levies $10 Fine, Gets Children Instead

Antioch, Calif. (AP) — Fined $10 each in Antioch's "battle of the pin curls," Mr. and Mrs. Amos Barton yesterday dumbfounded the court by leaving five of their nine children in the care of Justice of the Peace Yates Hamm.

Mrs. Barton exclaimed, after reading a long statement: "Judge Hamm, we turn our five youngest children over to you, to be their legal guardian."

Then the Bartons left. In his chambers Judge Hamm found the five weeping youngsters. Beside each was a carton containing that child's possessions.

Hamm said he was bewildered by the curious turn of events. He gave each child 50 cents to stem the tears, and the five were taken by Probation Officer Everett Joseph to the county juvenile home.

The trouble started when the Bartons decided they wouldn't send a 15-year-old daughter, Theola, to school because she had been sent home for attending classes with her hair in pin-curls.

Music Stopped; Law Takes Over

McKeesport (AP) — Peter Joseph Radzvin got tired of music in a tavern below his second floor apartment.

Radzvin decided he'd do something about it. Picking up an unloaded shotgun, he entered the tavern and demanded:

"Stop the music. I'm tired of it." The music stopped. During the silence someone called the police. Yesterday Radzvin paid a $50 fine for disturbing the peace.

Radzvin told a police magistrate:

"All I wanted to do was scare the band members."

BUGGY BUMPERS—Yesterday turned out to be one of those days filled with sunshine when everybody wanted to try out those new duds he got for Christmas. The daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Durell Mader, 8 Coolbaugh St., Stroudsburg, were no exception. Record Photographer Les Carlton, captivated by the above scene, stopped and snapped a picture of, left to right, Susanne, 5, who seems quite pleased with the whole thing; Barbara, 8 months, who appeared slightly unconcerned, and Pamela, 2½ years, a wee bit shy. All three got buggies for Christmas, along with warm clothing, boots, dolls and headgear. They agreed that there's no time like the present to enjoy a present. (Daily Record photo)

Highly Inflammable Sweaters Being Peddled By Salesmen Reported In Nearby Jersey

New York (AP)—About a month ago a young man in Los Angeles lit a cigaret. He was frightened half out of his wits when his flashy new sweater went up in flames with an explosive "poof."

A few days later the same thing happened to another man.

Since then the explosive sweaters have turned up in many parts of the country, stirring a small scale national panic.

Elderly Couple's Troubles Stem From Children

Hobart, Okla. (AP)—S. A. Foote, 101, was granted a divorce from his wife, Nannie, about 86, yesterday.

The couple had been married five years. His attorney J. Percy Hughes, said they got along fine until some of their children, themselves past the half century mark, came to live with them.

Martin Seeks Renomination

Harrisburg (AP) — Sen. Edward Martin said yesterday he would seek re-election for senator from Pennsylvania.

The 72-year-old former governor made the announcement at a news conference, declaring simply:

"I am now announcing myself as a candidate for United States senator."

Martin said economy in government spending would be one of the principal planks in his campaign platform.

"I will, however, discuss the issues from time to time as they come up," he told newsmen. "I've always been for a pay-as-you-go government."

The white-haired former major general also said he was not "leaning toward anybody in particular" as a choice for a Republican presidential nominee.

French Military Genius Expires

Paris (AP) — Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny, a World War II hero whose military genius sparked the drive against the Communists in IndoChina, died last night in a Paris hospital. He was 61.

The five-star general, known as the "French MacArthur," had served as French high commissioner and military commander in chief of the French Far Eastern outpost since December, 1950.

Fine To Hear Truck-Weight Pros, Cons

Harrisburg (AP)—Gov. John S. Fine will hold a public hearing Jan. 17 to hear views pro and con on legislation to increase truck weight limits on Pennsylvania highways.

Fine scheduled the hearings yesterday in a move to obtain additional data before signing the bill passed finally by the Legislature on Dec. 19. The hearing is virtually without precedent.

The measure provides for boosting the weights of commonly used tractor-trailers—those with tandem axles in the rear—from 45,000 to 60,000 pounds.

At the same time the load limit for single axle semi-trailers would be increased from 45,000 to 48,000 pounds.

Other features of the bill provide sharply increased penalties for overloading. A $100 fine plus $2 for each 100 pounds of excess weight would supplant the present flat $50 fine.

The bill also requires better braking capacity on trucks and sets a minimum engine capacity for climbing hills. These features would be required after March 31, 1953, while weights would be increased immediately.

Stolen Infant Found Unharmful; Woman Jailed

Mankato, Minn. (AP) — An 18-day-old baby boy police said had been kidnapped by a childless woman "desperate" after a miscarriage, was reunited unharmful with his mother yesterday, some 20 hours after it was snatched from its crib.

Held without charge was an au-burn-haired woman who sobbed to police and newsmen that she had taken the baby after a futile effort to "buy" an illegitimate child for $300 through a bar-room acquaintance.

When the acquaintance failed to bring a child to her, she drove here from nearby New Ulm. At gunpoint she took the baby boy, one of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Callahan, said Ed Larson, New Ulm chief of police. The woman was identified by Chief Larson as Mrs. Leonard Scheid, 35.

Costello Plea Denied

New York (AP)—A Federal judge ruled yesterday that televising of the hearings was no excuse for racketeer Frank Costello's refusal to testify at the Senate crime probe last March. Judge Sylvester J. Ryan made no clear-cut ruling, however, on whether a witness can refuse to testify under oath in televised hearings.

Atomic Gun Displayed To Congressmen

Washington (AP) — A small model of an artillery gun designed to fire shells with atomic warheads was displayed yesterday to members of the Senate-House Atomic Energy committee.

Tight secrecy surrounded the showing, which took place behind closed doors. But from past official statements it could be inferred that the weapon has already been tested, although perhaps not with an atomic shell in it.

It was Senator McMahon (D-Conn.), chairman of the joint committee, who described the model to newsmen as that of a gun "designed to handle atomic shells." McMahon declined to say whether it was a small-scale model of a gun already in existence, or made from blueprints of one not yet built.

However, Gen. J. Lawton Collins, the Army chief of staff, said last month that atomic artillery "has been tested as a weapon."

Officials have been saying for some time that the U. S. has ready for use tactical atomic weapons which could be used against troops in the field. But that description might cover smaller A-bombs, artillery shells, guided missiles or possibly radioactive dust.

Relatively small A-bombs are known to have been tested, and display of the model artillery weapon—along with Collins' comments—indicates that artillery shells are also about ready for possible use.

Collins said Dec. 6 that they would be ready in the "not too distant" future. He said he did not want to say how soon it would be practicable to put them to use "because, needless to say, any potential enemy would like to have that information."

The Senate-House committee examined and discussed the gun model during a review of the whole atomic energy picture at its first session of the new Congress.

McMahon said the group reviewed, among other things, progress made toward development of the awesome hydrogen bomb. Asked if the committee was satisfied, he replied:

"It is not the business of this committee to be satisfied. We are a watchdog committee and a watchdog should always growl."

Mr. X Dies; Name Bared

Cincinnati (AP) — "Mr. X," who has been unconscious nine years, died last night.

For the first time his identity was disclosed.

He was Robert Steger, 60, of Lexington, Ky.

"Mr. X" as he has been known through all the years, was hurt in February, 1943 when he was hit by an eight-pound pulley while working at the Wright Aeronautical Co. plant near here.

He was knocked unconscious. A blood clot formed on his brain and since that time he has lain in a coma in a hospital here. His life was sustained by the feeding of pre-digested food through the nose. The hospital kept his identity secret at the request of his family.

Strategy Talks End

Washington (AP) — A high-level conference called to map strategy in case Red China tries to turn Indo-China into another Korea ended last night in an atmosphere of top secrecy.

Father Of Dead Hero Refuses Highest Medal On Grounds Truman 'Not Worthy' To Confer It

Washington (AP) — An embittered father of two sons killed in Korea refused to accept the Medal of Honor yesterday. He was reported to feel that President Truman is unworthy to bestow it.

Pentagon officials said it was the first time in history that anyone has turned down the nation's highest award for gallantry in battle.

Mr. Truman himself has said he would rather wear the medal than be president.

The father, Halsey McGovern of Washington, D. C., not only rejected the Congressional Medal of Honor awarded posthumously to one of his sons but also the Silver Star awarded to another.

McGovern could not be reached for comment, but the Times-Herald quoted him as saying:

Debris Found But No Sign Of 45 Seamen

Seattle (AP) — Coast Guard planes and a search vessel last night reported finding wreckage and debris near the last known position of the missing freighter Pennsylvania.

The report was received by Seattle district headquarters from the cutter Klamath. It said aircraft sighted debris and the Canadian weather ship Stonetown had located a hatch cover, lumber and plates 34 miles south by southeast from the Pennsylvania's last radioed message.

No survivors from the crew of 45 or 46 persons were seen.

Aircraft also have sighted 15 boxes, an oil slick and drums with yellow ends 24 miles southeast of the Pennsylvania's radioed position, the Coast Guard said.

The report brought intensified plans for a wider aerial and sea search today and one Coast Guard and five Navy planes will be in the vicinity at daybreak.

Previously, hopes for survival of any men who left the disabled freighter Wednesday night had faded almost to nothing.

"Not a trace" was the report of fliers who came back for rest and refueling from their hazardous mission 750 miles northwest of Seattle. "Not a trace" was the report from ships that sailed back and forth across a vast area of the storm-whipped North Pacific.

Draft Quota For March Far Below Average

Washington (AP) — The Army and Marines yesterday called for 28,600 draftees in March—a figure far below average.

The quota, issued yesterday by the Defense department, includes 20,000 for the Army and 8,600 for the Marines. The Navy does not take draftees, relying on recruiting.

The department also announced that the quota for February, previously announced at 55,000 men, has been cut by 2,500. It said the reduction was possible because of increased volunteering and a change in Marine Corps recruiting plans.

The revised February draft call will include 41,000 for the Army and 11,500 for the Marines.

The March call will bring to 875,430 the total number of young men inducted since the draft was resumed in September, 1950. Of that number, 802,000 were assigned to the Army, the rest to the Marines.

Young men 18½ through 25 years of age are now eligible for the draft.

New M-47 Tanks Flunk Final Test

Detroit (AP) — The Army, it was disclosed yesterday, has been putting together tanks at the arsenal here for eight months without their yet passing approval.

It's the new M-47, a 45-ton medium tank. A fault in its turret control system is still holding up acceptance.

Col. Glenn C. Wilhide, arsenal commander, said that he was hopeful, however, that impending new tests in California would find the tank in proper shape.

The disclosure here came in an interview as efforts were continuing in Washington to get rid of bottlenecks holding up defense production.

Disappearance Of Enterprise His Worst Moment, Greeting From Dancy Rated Brightest

Falmouth, Eng. (AP) — A tired little sailor in borrowed clothes, Capt. Kurt Carlsen stepped ashore a hero yesterday after losing a gruelling fight to save his Flying Enterprise from Atlantic gales. Humbly, he said: "The odds were against me."

The dauntless skipper—20 days out of Hamburg on a voyage that ended in his first shipwreck—landed at the Prince of Wales pier in this small Cornish port with Mate Kenneth Dancy of the British tug Turmoil, who rode the hurricane-cracked freighter with him for the final week of a two-week epic.

The Enterprise plunged to the bottom Thursday.

Thousands cheered Carlsen. Fresh honors and fresh citations were pressed upon him. He accepted them modestly, quietly, in a drawing room marked by the accents of his native Denmark.

Instead of a maritime cap, he wore a beret over his brown hair. The beard he grew on the Enterprise had been shaved off. Under a borrowed black raincoat which was too big for him, Carlsen wore a white shirt and a black tie, also given to him aboard the Turmoil.

His worst moment?

"It was the moment that the Flying Enterprise disappeared below the sea," Carlsen said. "I hurt for quite a bit."

His brightest moment?

That, he said, came when Dancy stepped from the pitching Turmoil to the deck of the Enterprise last Friday — after Carlsen had spent six days and nights alone—and said "shake hands."

Why did he stay aboard his ship, listing heavily from a beating in the worst North Atlantic storm in 50 years, after his crew of 40 and 10 passengers were rescued?

It was his duty, said the 37-year-old Carlsen.

And what finally caused him to decide his ship was doomed and to give up his tremendous struggle against the sea?

"The doors of the wheelhouse exploded from the pressure of the rushing water," he explained.

So he and Dancy, 27, jumped from the Flying Enterprise into rough seas, swam hand-in-hand to the Turmoil and clambered up to her bobbing deck. The Flying Enterprise sank 40 minutes later.

But he's going back to sea. This hilly port town of 17,036 put out its flags and pennants in honor of the sea captain from Woodbridge, N. J. Thousands turned out and stood in solid rows, live deep, for the two blocks from the pier to the municipal building. About 250 newsmen, photographers and radio men were on hand. Carlsen said before the reception started he was more afraid of them than the storms that hammered his ship.

He began the day with an apology, telling the official greeting party and newsmen:

"I deeply regret that I was not in a position to bring the Enterprise back with me. The odds were against me."

He came ashore without passports or papers. All were lost at sea. He saved only the clothes he wore and his wristwatch, and water ruined the wristwatch.

Steel Hearings Adjourn Tonight

Washington (AP)—Hearings in a steel dispute will adjourn tonight until Feb. 1 at the urgent request of the industry, the chairman of the hearing panel said last night.

The three-week recess is needed to give the companies time to prepare their case for presentation to the Wage Stabilization board.

The CIO Steelworkers union will complete its preliminary testimony on Feb. 1. The industry will start its side of the story Feb. 4.

How To Eradicate Gambling? Kill All The People

Washington (AP)—Rep. Curtis (R-Mo.) said yesterday he will ask Congress to force the removal of Attorney General J. Howard McGrath, appointed to head President Truman's anti-corruption campaign. McGrath and his Justice department, Curtis said, "should be the subject of investigation and cleanup efforts, not in charge of them."

jecting the two medals, but refused to disclose his reasons for doing so.

The White House declined any comment.

McGovern's sons were killed in battle 12 days apart in the bitter winter fighting in Korea a year ago. Both were buried in Arlington National cemetery, the resting place of heroes, on Nov. 15.

The Medal of Honor was awarded to the older son, 1st Lt. Robert M. McGovern, 23, of the First Cavalry Division, for "incredible valor" against the enemy near Kanyangsan-Hi.

His brother, 2d Lt. Jerome F. McGovern, 21, of the Second Division, won the Silver Star for "absolute fearlessness" in leading a charge against the Chinese Communists.

MIGs Range To Parallel; Five Downed

Seoul, Saturday, (AP) — Communist jets challenged Allied air power again today after furious sky battles Friday which cost them five planes marked by one and one damaged.

Friday's battles raged southward almost to the 38th parallel, but today 100 MIGs hung close to the Yalu river border of Manchuria.

The Fifth Air Force said swift U. S. Sabre jets took on the Red jets in several brief clashes close to the river but no MIGs were damaged. About 50 of the MIGs stayed on their side of the border.

In all there were five air battles Friday, when the MIGs made their farthest southward penetration of the war.

Reds Dodge Key Question During Talks

Munsan, Korea, Saturday, (AP) — The Communist today again dodged an answer on the key question in the armistice negotiations—whether they intend to build up air power in Korea during a truce.

Exasperated Allied negotiators warned them Friday there could be no progress toward a truce until the Reds make their intentions clear.

But Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner, head of the truce supervision subcommittee, emerged from a 50-minute meeting today and said there was no progress.

"We continued to press for an expression from their side on their intent with regard to airfields, he said. "They will not give us a clear answer. So we reconvene at 11 a. m. tomorrow."

A second subcommittee on exchange of war prisoners met on schedule.

DPA Restricts Home Building To 600,000 Units

Washington (AP) — The government put the brake on home building and almost all types of civilian construction yesterday.

Announcing a new allocation of strategic metals for the construction industry, the Defense Production administration (DPA) said it would provide for a level of only 600,000 new home starts this year.

This is 45 per cent below the total of 1,100,000 dwellings begun last year and compares with a current starting rate of 850,000 homes a year.

DPA has the task of dividing up scarce materials between civilian and defense users. Its latest allocation of steel, copper and aluminum for civilian builders is for the quarter beginning April 1.

Asks McGrath Ouster

Washington (AP)—Rep. Curtis (R-Mo.) said yesterday he will ask Congress to force the removal of Attorney General J. Howard McGrath, appointed to head President Truman's anti-corruption campaign. McGrath and his Justice department, Curtis said, "should be the subject of investigation and cleanup efforts, not in charge of them."

How To Eradicate Gambling? Kill All The People

Louisville, Ky. (AP) — Anybody who thinks he can stop gambling, criminal Judge Lorraine Mix said yesterday, is a "visionary."

"We can't eradicate all gambling unless we kill all the people," Judge Mix told the grand jury. But he instructed the panel members to return indictments in gambling cases if the evidence justifies.

"I'm not a reformer or crusader," the judge continued, "but I do believe in enforcing all the laws."

Presbyterian Pastor Lists Week's Events

Rev. Frank W. Wingerter, pastor of the Presbyterian church of East Stroudsburg, has listed the events for the ensuing week.

The officers and faculty of the Church school have observed the interest the students are taking in the program "Youth Budget." It was inaugurated by the school at the first of the year.

Pastor Wingerter will speak tomorrow morning on "Tomorrow Is Today," based on the words of the Apostle Paul, "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Doolittle will place a memorial bouquet before the pulpit in memory of their son, George, who was killed in World War Two.

"The Life of the Apostle Paul" is the study of the teenagers on Sunday nights. Miss Dody Dellaria will be devotional leader.

Mrs. Wilbur Bruce, president of the Ariston Bible class, announced that her organization will hold a business session Tuesday night.

On Wednesday, January 16 at 7:30 p. m., the annual congregational meeting will be conducted at the church, with the following comprising a part of the business: Election of three elders for three years to fill the expired terms of L. J. Morgan, Harry Treible and Loring Chamber.

Election of three trustees for three years to fill the expired terms of Fred Wyckoff, Fred Gardner and George Warner.

Election of five deacons for three years to fill the expired terms of Ashton H. Burrows, Lester Dimmick, Homer Osborne, Fred Hershey and Wilbur Bruce.

Any member of the church may place in nomination names for the above offices by presenting them in writing to any elder on or before Sunday. The session, acting as a nominating committee, will report at the annual meeting.

Various reports will be given, budgets and benevolence quotas set and auditors elected.

Methodists Announce Services

"On Being Glad I'm a Christian In 1952" is the announced theme of Rev. Walter S. Johnston, minister of the Stroudsburg Methodist church for Sunday at 11 a. m.

The music of the service will be provided by the senior choir under the leadership of Albert J. Frengans, minister of music, and by the Sanctuary choir under the direction of Robert H. Hawk.

At the Vesper service at 7:30 p. m., the congregation will be led to lose itself in the spirit of the presence of the living Christ as He interprets Himself to His people in the successive months of the year.

STC Student To Assist Rev. Campbell

Tomorrow at the 11 a. m. worship hour in the First Presbyterian church of Stroudsburg, Stradford Snively, a member of the graduating class of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, will assist the pastor, Rev. Ernest T. Campbell, in the service. Mr. Snively is a pre-theological student who will soon take up his studies in Union Seminary, Richmond, Va.

Throughout his stay in the local community he has attended services of the First Presbyterian church. On several occasions he taught the Men's Bible Class. Mr. Snively will be presented with a book by the congregation as a token of its appreciation and good wishes.

For his sermon theme Mr. Campbell has chosen "The Greatest Ism in the World." Music will be provided by the vested choir with the senior choir singing the anthem "Repent Ye". Mrs. Robert Wolbert will take the solo part. The treble voices of the combined Youth choir will sing "O Lord Most Merciful."

The 7:30 worship hour will feature Eugene Strong, Negro baritone from Bethlehem. Mr. Strong will sing a concert of spirituals and classical church music. He will be accompanied by William H. Rohs.

Chestnuthill, Ross Township School Districts Form Jointure

Advantages Pointed Out By Officials

The school districts of Chestnuthill and Ross townships have entered into a joint school district agreement covering grades one to 12, inclusive. The jointure will be effective July 1, 1952 when the system will be known as the Chestnuthill-Ross Joint School District.

It is the first jointure of two school districts in Monroe county in many years. Among those which have existed in the past was one between Pocono and Jackson township school districts.

In addition to the basic aim of "furnishing the best possible educational opportunities for the children of these districts," the jointure will be economically beneficial to both districts, officials said yesterday.

Completion of the jointure agreement and its approval by the Department of Public Instruction after about five years of work were announced yesterday by County Superintendent of Schools John C. Litts and Assistant Superintendent Walter Sebring.

Economic benefits are achieved under a new act of Legislature which raised the reimbursement base of the State to school districts from $3,450 to $3,850. Probably as an encouragement to jointures, the law adds $500 to the new base for districts which join their operations.

In the case of both Chestnuthill and Ross townships, the base for reimbursement as a result of the jointure is increased from $3,850 to $4,350.

This base figure is multiplied by the district reimbursement fraction to determine the exact amount of appropriation each district will receive.

The $4,350 base applies to a teaching unit of 30 elementary pupils and 22 secondary pupils. John C. Mills, supervising principal of Chestnuthill Township schools, presided at a special meeting of the five members of each board of school directors on Jan. 8 at Chestnuthill, when articles of agreement for the jointure were ratified and adopted.

Under this agreement, the joint district was established and will be maintained upon these general terms:

Joint school district will be operated by the joint board of school directors in accordance with the State school laws in such buildings as are now in existence or in buildings that may be erected for the purpose.

Chestnuthill has the large consolidated school at Brodheads, Ross has two schools, both containing grades one to five, inclusive. They are the Flyte school near Brodheads and the Rempel school at Saylorsburg.

All costs of current expenses of the joint system will be divided between the two school districts on a pro rata basis, i.e. in proportion to the average daily membership of children attending school from each district. Average daily membership of Oct. 1 will be used, as basis.

All capital outlay costs of the joint system will be divided between the districts on the basis of market value in each district, as established by the State Tax Equalization Board, and as of the date of the preparation of the annual school budget under which the capital outlay is authorized.

Tuition received from other sources will be added to the funds of the joint board in payment of operating expenses.

The joint board will organize, supervise, and administer the transportation service, cost of which will be pro rated between the participating districts, according to average daily membership Oct. 1 of the current year, subject to approval of County board of school directors and State Council of Education.

Other than approval of their respective budgets and such other matters as are required by law, matters of the joint school system are to be delegated to a joint school committee composed of five directors from Chestnuthill and two from Ross, meeting regularly with the full joint board of ten. Chestnuthill will have five votes and Ross two votes. Quorum will consist of a majority of members of joint committee.

The agreement will remain in

Club Honors Kiwanqueens At Ladies Night Dinner

Strodsburg Kiwanis club honored the Kiwanqueens at a ladies' night celebration at the Penn-Strods hotel last night devoted entirely to a social time and entertainment.

Gilbert L. Smrz, the president, was in charge of the meeting which opened with the singing of "America" and invocation by Past President Arlington W. Williams.

The ladies at the head tables were presented with gardenia corsages and hankies. The tables were attractively decorated with banks of flowers.

John E. Watt, the club treasurer, acted as master of ceremonies and presented Rev. Henry I. Aulenbach, Allentown, past district governor and Mrs. Aulenbach, also LeRoy D. Trexler, also Allentown, lieutenant governor, 12th division, Kiwanis International, and Mrs. Trexler, and Roger Conner, immediate past president, Easton club, and Mrs. Conner, as special guests.

Merle C. Ostrom served as pianist at the songfest. Song leaders were Bob Hilton and George Garrison Shaffer.

Dr. Stanley S. Jaks, New York City, handwriting expert, presented a program which mystified his audience. Music for the dancing was furnished by Tiny Kulowitsch and his band, of Allentown. Members of the band also furnished special entertainment.

Elwood Hintze was chairman of the committee of arrangements. At the end of the school year an audit of the books of the joint board will be made at which time the actual costs of joint operation will be determined. The amount of actual payments made by each district to the joint board will be determined, as well as the proportionate part of expense of maintenance and operation.

If either of the school districts has contributed more than its proper share of expense, that sum will be credited to the next year's operation, or returned to the district. Any amount due by either of the districts must be paid forthwith by the district to the joint board.

Agreement is signed by these respective directors of the two school districts: Ervin Keger, president; Hayden Murphy, treasurer; Carl Kresge, vice president; R. Newton Davenport, Chester Stanowski and Clyde Detrick, non-member secretary of Chestnuthill; Elmer Marsh, president Mrs. Selma Greenmoyer, secretary; Harvey Heller, treasurer; Roy Correll, vice president and Clayton Snyder of Ross Township.

County Men Entered In Sawing Event

Robert Warner Jr. and Jay Warner of Pocono Lake, winners of the Monroe county farmers' log-sawing contest at the Wyckoff farm show last September, will compete in the State log-sawing contest at the annual Farm show to be held in Harrisburg next week.

Competing with the two first prize winners will be the runner-up team in last fall's county contest—Robert Warner Sr. and William Wildrick, also of Pocono Lake. The contest between father and son in the Warner family was one of the outstanding features of the local farm show.

Jay Warner and his brother James, now in the service, won the State contest two times during the four years it has been held as a state-wide event. The two brothers were ineligible to compete the following year due to a regulation which barred the previous year's winners from the contest.

This year's event will be staged at the small arena Thursday night, January 17.

Exchange Club To Hear Leister

Dr. Claude W. Leister, owner and director of the Pocono Wild Animal farm, will address the Exchange club Monday night at 6:30 at East Strodsburg Presbyterian church.

The address will be illustrated by motion pictures dealing with "animals in action."

LITTLE TALKS WITH BIG THOUGHTS

We talk a great deal about the Brotherhood of Man, as though it were something intangible and a great feat if attained. When, if you face it clearly, it simply means the things for which every man strives. Security for himself and his family; right for worship, a home, education, and comforts for his children. I want it for my family, and my neighbor wants it for his.

Airlift to Snowfall

If the heading over this editorial is a bit confusing, we hasten to advise that "airlift to snowfall" has to do with a major operation of the troop carrier squadrons picking up the 10,500 men of the 11th Airborne Division in Kentucky and deposit them in northern New York state where a cold weather maneuver is ready to move.

We mention it because there has not been a great deal of fanfare about Operation Snowfall, even though the Army and the Air Force are most seriously intent on learning as much about warfare in winter clime as can be learned in a few short weeks.

The problems they are seeking to solve involve such varied ones as uniforms and footwear for the bitter cold and snow, the operation of huge troop-carrying aircraft in sub-zero weather, the adequacy of medical installations in the frigid field exercises, and similar related matters.

Comment succinct and accurate was furnished by a returned Korean veteran when he stood looking out over the snow-covered field and let his eyes rove over the ice-encrusted trees.

"The men home from Korea," quoth the sergeant as he pulled his overcoat collar up and cupped his gloved hands over his ears, "are not going to like this very much!"

Which seems the acme of understatement. So when you are warm and comfortable in a movie or at a hockey match or a basketball game, give a moment's thought to the hardy young men of the 11th Airborne, in the field for Operation Snowfall. Like the sergeant from Korea, they aren't going to like it very much . . . but they are doing it so that you and all of us can continue to enjoy the right to make our own decisions.

A Comfort to Carlsen

If he had just had a few minutes to spare from his ceaseless battle against wave and wind and weather, Captain Kurt Carlsen of the famed Flying Enterprise might have gathered some comfort from the news out of Moscow that the Russians invented seamanship!

At least, he would have had a good laugh over the claim printed in the Soviet navy newspaper. For according to this undoubtedly highly accurate and truthful publication, the ancient Norsemen who invaded Russia in the 13th Century knew nothing at all about ships, and it took the Russians to tell them how to get around on the seas.

No doubt Capt. Carlsen's Nordic ancestors roared with laughter when they heard about the latest Russian claim, and pounded each other on the back in over-the-top merriment.

With the addition of navigation and seamanship to the already imposing list of things invented by the Russians, it looks as though there is nothing much to add, so we may just as well sit back and gaze with reverent eyes at a land whose citizens could do everything, and do it first.

A prominent English novelist, here on a lecture tour, was asked to give his opinion of a young rival whose book was making the novelist's latest opus look like an also-ran. The novelist made a very face and whispered, "If I told you the truth, I'd be a bloody hypocrite."

Nick Agropopolus, who did a bit of farming down Maryland way, received a notice from the town council that the license to maintain a cow on his premises had expired. Agropopolus took pen in hand and replied, "My cow she best you to it. She expire two weeks ago. Much oblige. Yours truly . . ."

News commentators. Bob Trout and John Cameron Swayze were supping at a Radio City restaurant, when Trout suddenly plunged his fist into a bowl of steaming soup. "Have you gone suddenly loco?" asked Swayze. "Not at all," answered Trout. "I'm just getting into shape for our 'Who Said That?' TV program tonight, and groping for words."

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood.—Jack of all announcing and acting trades around here is a husky, hearty fellow named Marvin Miller. He does so many things well, that even Marvin himself doesn't know quite what he is.

He's Louella Parsons' commercial-announcer. He announces the Railroad Hour. Father Knows Best, the Benish Show, and the Whistler. He has a 15-minute story-telling spot, "Behind the Story," five days a week.

But that's only beginning. He plays dramatic parts on the Railroad Hour. And one day that show's producer telephoned him desperately:

"Our guest star, Fortunio Bonanova, has been seized with a bad cold. There's no time to get another. Can you hit an E?"

Miller stepped to his piano, near the phone, and tried it. And that night, though he'd never sung professionally before, he duetted with Rose Stevens on "She Didn't Say 'Yes'" for a coast-to-coast audience. A radio magazine gave him an award for "the best substitute performance of the year."

There are many other sides to Marvin Miller. He narrated the Oscar-winning cartoon, "Gerald McBoing-Boing" and was the voice of seven characters. They included a child, Gerald's father, a teacher, and a doctor.

More recently Miller has narrated a cartoon about a family of brass instruments. He's the voice of Oom-pah-pah, the tuba father, Oom-na-ma, the mellophone mother, and others including their hot-trumpet child.

Marvin is of Swiss-Austrian-German ancestry. But with a little help from a makeup man he becomes an acceptable and sinister-looking Oriental. So he was the Tokyo police chief in "Blood on the Sun," a Communist general in "Peking Express," Mongol conqueror Genghis Khan in "The Golden Horde," and a Chinese art dealer in the forthcoming "Hong Kong."

These Days -- By George E. Sokolsky

Sokolsky

A Mighty Question. A very beautiful woman I know, who is supposed to be wholly ornamental, every once in a while knocks over her friends with a startling question which can only enter the mind of one not corrupted by too much learning. It is sheer good sense.

This time, a group of us were bemoaning the state of the world in a jam session on all matters from how to save mankind to the characteristics of Harry Truman and the mink, when this sweet child threw this into the conversation: "What would happen if we could go back to 1914?" That stopped us.

"What do you mean, go back?" I said petulantly.

Her point was that the world was fairly comfortable until we all went to war in 1914. So what would we be like if that had not happened?

I think the jam session ended with that one. Nobody dared face it. Yet, I could not keep that question out of my head for several days.

There had been no general war from 1815 to 1914. During that century, the material progress of the world had made greater strides than in any similar period in the whole of human history. It was the century of the application of steam, electricity, electronics. It was the era of the development of the electric light, the sewing machine, farm machinery, mass production in industry, the typewriter. It was the time for the freeing of women from economic and political discrimination. Representative government appeared in an increasing number of countries. Education gradually ceased to be a monopoly of the rich; slavery was abolished in all forms in all countries in Europe and the Americas. New means of communications shortened time and space.

Spiritual values appeared in the law. Such bodies as the Hague Tribunal and the International Red Cross came into existence. A vast volume of international law was written. Religious freedom was acknowledged and public outrage expressed itself in countless forms against injustice anywhere.

Then came World War I, a wholly meaningless and unwarranted war. Originating as a conflict between two processing nations, Great Britain and Germany, over markets, it ended in the Bolshevik Revolution in Russia, the rise of Fascism and Nazism in Italy and Germany, the beginning of the break-up of the British Empire and the emergence of the United States as the almoner of the world.

For the United States, it meant the increase of the size and function of government, the assumption of huge governmental costs and the adoption of the income tax, which reversed the economic and social character of this nation.

From 1914 to 1952, the United States moved from a free economy to a mixed economy, from the individual operating according to his will and judgment and at his risk to a government-regulated and at times controlled economy. This involved not only widespread use of subsidies, making an increasing number of Americans dependent upon government, but it perforce levelled downward elements in the population to a general proletariat.

Because of economic dislocations arising out of war, often called depressions, states and municipalities became more and more dependent upon the Federal government, which, having the advantage of the income and excise taxes, was able to tap larger reservoirs of the people's earnings. were sugar-coated by what has generally been called social security.

In fact, the economic and social system of the United States entered upon a form of Fabian Socialism, somewhat inchoate because of the confusing admixtures of Marxism and Keynesian economics. Politically, it tended to a centralized national system, with increased powers for officials and a constant war as a means toward maintaining a ruling group in power. Congress struggled against the psychological use of war as a weapon of control of our own people, and the Supreme Court was debased by unfit appointments.

Against this stood the inherent love of Americans for freedom; their strong insistence upon attending to their own affairs and resisting governmental interference; their continued belief in Congress as the center of our governmental system; and their enormous capacity for production in the face of adverse circumstances.

What would have happened to us and to the rest of the world if 1914 had not diverted us from a steady course of progress?

Who can really answer that question, but I am glad that it was asked. Perhaps if we stand on that point, our perspective as to our purposes and remedies may be more correct.

Mrs. Williams To Speak On Cancer Tues.

Mrs. Robert Miller, county captain of the Monroe County unit of the Pennsylvania Division, American Cancer society, has announced a special meeting scheduled for Tuesday, January 15 at 2:30 at the YMCA in Stroudsburg for all women in Monroe County interested in cancer research and information.

Mrs. J. Stewart Williams, state representative for this area, will be the speaker. Since the meeting has been scheduled especially for Monroe County, a large attendance is expected. Mrs. Williams, past state president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Women's clubs, has often spoken here.

Mrs. Miller has also announced the town commanders who will serve with her: Mrs. Olaf Pedersen, Stroudsburg; Mrs. Frederick Jones, East Stroudsburg; Mrs. Lawton Huffman, Marshall's Creek; and Mrs. Elizabeth Thomas, Barrett. Other commanders for various sections will be announced later.

For the Cancer Dressing program, Mrs. Elsie Stanford, chairman, has issued a call for volunteers wishing to assist in the project. She also has asked for any type of clean cloths to aid in the making of dressings, or contributions if preferred.

Correspondence should be addressed to P O Box 506, Stroudsburg.

Card Party For March Of Dimes Set For Mt. Pocono

Mount Pocono—The first meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Pocono Mt. Fire Co., for the new year, was held on Tuesday night at the fire hall.

Mrs. Virginia Simmons, serving her second year as auxiliary president, expressed her thanks for the fine cooperation she had previously received and re-appointed the same committees to serve in these capacities: Cards and flowers for ill members, Mrs. Irene Hartman; kitchen equipment, Mrs. Yvonne Regan; Mrs. Helen Hines and Mrs. Josephine Possinger; publicity—Mrs. Irene Hartman and Mrs. Leona Powers. The February refreshment committee will include: Mesdames Jennie Battisto, Catherine Dorr, Berenice Fanseen and Helen Hines.

The president also reported the folding metal tables for the hall had been ordered by the auxiliary and when they arrive will be a valuable asset to the hall equipment.

The auditors report was submitted by Mrs. Irene Brock and acceptance was made by the group.

A discussion was held concerning the serving of sandwiches and coffee to the firemen upon their return from a fire. Mesdames Keathe Fallor, Florence Megargel, Mary Hodgson, Alice Hopke and Jo Possinger were named as a committee to see that this service was carried out when deemed necessary.

Communications received included a letter of thanks from the Pocono Mt. Fire Co. for a substantial donation contributed to them by the auxiliary.

Action upon a communication from the "March of Dimes" committee resulted in the planning for a benefit game party on Tuesday night, Jan. 29 at the fire hall, the proceeds of which will be donated to the cause.

The committee for the party will include: Miss Julia Hamblin, Mrs. Rose Croner, Miss Cora Bisham, Mrs. Shirley Murray, Mrs. Irene Brock and Mrs. Irene Hartman.

At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Wanda Plevyak and her committee.

Democratic Women's Club Officer Slate

A complete list of officers of the Democratic Woman's Club of Monroe county, installed Wednesday night, includes: Mrs. Ray Williams, president; Mrs. Joanne Gutman, first vice president; Mrs. Floyd Butz Sr., second vice president; Mrs. Floyd DeHaven, third vice president; Mrs. Margaret Kimari, secretary; Mrs. Willita M. Rogalski, treasurer. The program included the showing of a film on Communism, and refreshments were served by the hostesses: Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Kimari and Mrs. Gutman.

Walking through the Sears farm store enroute to lunch in the Recreation Hall, several of us stopped to peer into the incubators where the baby chicks were peeping in great shape, and looking for all the world like animated feather pom poms from a woman's hat. There's something about a baby chick that's just about as appealing as anything you could imagine. One look and you want to take a few home . . . or open a chicken ranch in the country.

I guess at one time or another everyone's had some experience with the little feathered critters. We remember an Easter years ago when we bought two as pets. Loveable they were too . . . and they proved intelligent and affectionate. But when they began to develop real feathers in place of the fluff that first characterized them, it was obvious that a house was no appropriate residence. It was a tragic day, when one little fellow flew into the swing door, just as it closed.

Years later my older boy wanted chicks at Easter, and we obliged. But this time with a little white house especially constructed for them in the back yard. All went well too, until they were large enough to fly easily over the fence between our yard and the neighbors'. After we had to climb that fence several times to retrieve our feathered friends from prized flower gardens, it seemed that maybe we should offer them to a farmer friend. And they were carted away amid the regrets of the entire family . . . but not of the people next door.

Memories of all this scurried to mind as we heard the cheeping of these little fluff-balls in the Sears store. Jerry Hinton exhibited a great deal of pride in the display, and asked me to tell you that Chet Cortwright says it's time now to order these Farm Master baby chicks for early spring delivery. He pointed out that they are 4 X grade, U. S. approved, pullover clean, and of selective breeding. In other words, they're about as fine a chick as you would desire to stock that poultry farm of yours. And, from a purely feminine point of view, they're the cheesiest little chicks we've ever chuckled over!

Band Boosters Hear Music By Brass Quintette

Tannersville—The Band Boosters association of the Pocono Township school met on Monday night. A quintette, composed of John Frailey, Dottie Nuss, Ann Louise Frailey, Jane Beseker and Harriet Learn, played selections demonstrating two types of brass interpretations of music.

The Boosters considered ways and means of raising funds for the purposes of the organization.

At the next meeting, the full band will play, not as a concert but to demonstrate how much is being accomplished. Carmen Cavuto, leader, stressed the importance of encouraging children to practice as much as possible; otherwise the valuable instruction and experience gained in the ensembles will be lost through the inadequacies of some members in keeping up to the level set by others.

The set of bells desirable to further enhance the band will be provided soon, it is expected.

Mrs. Frances Frailey won the attendance prize.

The date of the association's next meeting is Feb. 4.

St. Paul's Women Elect Officers

Tannersville—The women workers of St. Paul's Lutheran church have been meeting regularly once a week to quilt and, at their last meeting, elected the following officers for the new year: President, Mrs. Ethel Hill; vice-president, Mrs. Harry Singer; Secretary-treasurer, Viola Learn. Anyone who wishes to assist in this work will be made most welcome it was stated.

Those who attended the last meeting were: Mrs. Leola Nye, Mrs. Nita Warner, Mrs. Nettie Bisham, Mrs. Lulu Walters, Mrs. Cora Shook, Mrs. Mary Singer, Mrs. Ethel Hill, Mrs. Nellie Mosteller and Viola Learn.

Pocono PTA Discusses Home Work

Tannersville—The Parent-Teachers Assn. of the Pocono Township school met on Wednesday night with the president, Francis Mooney presiding.

The children are still collecting slips from the American Stores sales which will aid them in procuring a television set for the school, it was announced and everyone is asked to save slips for this purpose.

The American Stores Co. is granting another 30-day extension to help the local children get the award.

The program turned out to be a very interesting one. It was a panel discussion on "Homework" with Dr. John Wildrick, of State Teachers college as moderator. The three teachers who took part were James Arndt, George Learn and Mrs. Lenita Merritt. The parents on the panel were Mrs. Neal Cokerly, Mrs. Elsie Beseker and David Nissen. The students who were heard were John Frailey, Harriet Learn and Patricia Bowman.

Many from the audience also spoke and all expressed the hope the subject may again be taken up at some future meeting, as there was not sufficient time at this one meeting to cover the subject adequately.

The next meeting of the association will be held on Feb. 13 and will be the annual school social. Mrs. Elsie Beseker is the chairman of the program.

Mrs. Helen Starnier gave a report at this meeting of her findings with regard to the hot lunches project which she will enlarge upon at a later date.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Just as when you learn a new word, your eye and mind are quick to catch it in almost everything you read, so because of the Historical society meeting coming up it seems that historical stories have kept popping up in the social news.

Mrs. Luke Michael, who is celebrating her 87th birthday next Tuesday, could probably add a few footnotes to history herself. Her parents owned and operated Dimmick's Ferry above Shawnee, and she can remember the river when it was filled with rafts and their cargo.

Sort of a haunting picture — our lazy summer river as a busy artery of trade, during the hot water that followed every spring thaw during the 1870's.

According to Roy Koehler's "History of Monroe County during the Civil War," each stream between Water Gap and Port Jervis floated its quota of logs to the Delaware, where in comparatively quiet eddies they were bound into rafts and with their crews negotiated the dangerous shoals and eddies all the way to Philadelphia.

That must have been something for a little girl to watch from the lawn of the Dimmick homestead above the river. Must have been something, too, to see the one paddlewhiteler that came churning up from Easton with flags flying, ready to make history by tying up at Delaware Water Gap. Would have too, maybe, if it hadn't blown up down around Portland way.

Oh, there are so many ages in which it would have been fun to be alive—past and future. But since the only time we're got to be alive in is the present, we'll just have to do our best to live half a dozen different lives right now.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Two former Lehigh Valley League campaigners broke into the news during the past two days, both in rather inglorious manner. The Temple University student publication accused the remainder of the varsity basketball team of "freezing Bill Mikky out," as far as scoring is concerned during the early games of the present campaign. Virtually everyone who has been following Mikky in recent years was certainly surprised at the showing of the high scoring forward, who last year averaged more than 29 points per contest and was named to the Associated Press All-American quintet.

Mikky, even while campaigning for Palmerton High, was a terrific shooter and a good floor-man. His ability carried over into college and apparently even improved greatly as the seasons rolled by. However, this year Bill, who while in contact with this writer appeared to be a very nice fellow, has been unable to even average 14 tallies a game. According to reports, Mikky has taken many less shots this year than he did last season and the Temple publication blames his teammates, who have been accused of degrading both Mikky and Coach Josh Cody.

Temple, annually regarded as one of the top cage machines in the east, has been unable to account for victories in the same fashion that it has in the past. This, coupled with the comparative poor showing of Mikky has not only the Temple student body, but the Alumni as well, up in arms about the entire situation. The Temple newspaper apparently has traced the fault to members of the varsity club and it didn't beat around the bush in accusing the cagers of laying down on the job.

The other former Lehigh Valley League campaigner to make the sports pages across the nation is Ed Filipowicz, former Northampton High gridders. Filipowicz was one of 18 Georgia football players dropped from school recently, because of scholastic deficiencies. However, Ed, a senior, had used up all his football eligibility before getting the boot from classes. Eleven of the Georgia gridders discharged were only freshmen.

Charley Spidel, famous wrestling coach at Penn State, and one of the feature attractions at the Eastern Pennsylvania Scholastic Coaches association clinic at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College last year, recently selected his all-time Penn State wrestling squad. The group included talent as late as Homer Hartz, 1931, and as old as Ted Wilson, 1929. Lock Haven will be one of ESSTC's toughest wrestling foes this season. The Bald Eagles recently pinned Cornell, 17-15, and tied Ithaca, 18-18.

Tannersville, Tobyhanna and West End teams all breathed a healthy sigh of relief this week when it was decided for sure that the Pocono Mountains Basketball League would operate this winter. It was a last minute decision by the Pocono Lake team to enter the circuit once again that saved the loop from complete collapse. As is easily understood, the circuit couldn't possibly operate with less than four clubs. Even four teams is a big drop from the eight that have campaigned in former years. Action opens on Monday.

Women interested in entering the Head Pin Tournament at Harmon's Recreation still have time to beat the deadline. Action isn't scheduled until 6 p.m. However, interested parties are urged to call 9026 or 751-J on the double. This is the second time in as many years that a tournament of this type has been held. Prizes for all winners in the recent Monroe County Singles and Doubles Handicap Tournament will be made on Monday night, some at the Pocono Bowling Center and others at Harmon's alleys.

Ken Kresge, one of two officials on the job during the East Stroudsburg-Coplay game last night, is one of the most colorful officials to work a basketball game in Monroe County during the last five years. Coach Sam Russell and the Stroudsburg High school varsity cage machine are scheduled to witness the Lafayette-Bucknell game tonight, in Easton. Dick Eppley, former Eastburg basketball, baseball and football performer, was on hand to witness last night's Eastburg-Coplay tussle, while on leave from his navy duties in Maryland.

Rev. Ernest T. Campbell, Stroudsburg Presbyterian church, and Harry Smith superintendent of the Monroe County General Hospital, were two of the most interested spectators at the Stroudsburg-Lehigh tussle. Sam Wells insisted that the Mountaineers would defeat the Indians, even when the home team trailed by four points in the last round.

Stroudsburg Nips Lehigh in Thriller, 46-45

Fourth Period Play Decides Close Struggle

Stroudsburg High cut a vastly taller Lehigh cage machine down to its own size last night and went on to win a thrilling Lehigh Valley league contest, 46-45, before an overflow crowd at the W. Main St. court. The outcome of the contest was in doubt right up to the final seconds, as the two arch rivals crossed basketball abilities for the first time this season.

Floyd Williams, with 16 points, led the Stroudsburg junior varsity cage machine to a convincing 55-22 victory in the preliminary tussle.

Lehigh, featuring towering Dennis Roth in a high scoring role, was a tough nut to crack throughout the contest, but the all court press exhibited by Stroudsburg in the final period completely upset the Indians and made victory possible.

Jack Newell carried the brunt of the Stroudsburg attack during the early going, despite the fact that a victory hungry Lehigh contingent managed to hold the upper hand at the end of the first eight minutes of action, 13-9.

However, Dave "Muscles" Everett and Karl Weingerter took turns taking up the slack in the second round and the Mountaineers battled the Indians tooth and nail into the halftime intermission.

Both quintets picked up 14 points during the second quarter and Lehigh went to the dressing room for the halftime rest with a 27-23 edge.

The scoring pace fell greatly in the third stanza, but Stroudsburg managed to pick up one point with a 9-8 advantage. However, the home team went into the final round on the short end of the tabulation, 34-32.

Stroudsburg, featuring the all-court press hampered the smooth working Lehigh team no less during the final quarter and began to find the scoring range when the chips were down. A field goal and foul shot by Newell broke a 41-41 deadlock late in the stanza and enabled the home contingent to move out in front, 44-41.

However, Lehigh picked up a pair of points on two foul shots, but Newell came back with another field goal to give the Mountaineers a 46-43 edge which held water in the face of a desperate final Lehigh High double-decker.

Both teams repeatedly took the ball out of bounds rather than risk a missed foul shot in the fading seconds. But it was a combination of press and the best high school freezing tactics witnessed on a local court this year that finally broke Lehigh's back.

Captain Alden "Red" Featherman was the key figure in the freezing sessions and did a brilliant job in leading his mates to the narrowest of narrow victories.

Newell accounted for his 16 points on six field goals and four charity shots, while Roth was high man for Lehigh with 20 counters. The Lehigh cage registered nine double-deckers and two foul conversions.

Stroudsburg made eight of 16 attempts from the foul line, while Lehigh clicked on 11 of 17 tosses from the same distance.

The Mountaineers return to action on Tuesday, when they play Catawissa on the W. Main St. boards.

Polk Takes Measure Of Chestnuthill

Broadheadsville — Polk High school withstood a terrific finish by a determined Chestnuthill cage machine here last night to open the 1952 Monroe County League flag race with a 41-36 decision. It was the first meeting of the two arch rivals this season.

Polk made it a clean sweep by also ringing the victory bell in the preliminary contest, with a 25-12 nod over the Chestnuthill junior varsity.

The red and white clad Polk varsity contingent, with Harry Krechel carrying the bulk of the load, zoomed into a 14-5 lead at the end of the first quarter and remained on in front the remainder of the distance, although the home contingent finished with a rush.

Command
Polk reached the halfway mark on the commanding end of a 23-10 count and then increased its chances of victory by scoring 11 points in the third stanza, while Chestnuthill could account for only nine. Polk entered the last quarter on the long end of a 34-19 score.

Chestnuthill put on a gallant finish, but despite its 16-7 advantage during the last eight minutes, Polk walked off the court with a major victory, by a margin of five points.

Krechel banged home 24 points in a winning cause, racking up 11 field goals and a pair of foul conversions.

Lloyd Bonser, with 15 markers on five field goals and the same number of foul shots, paced the losing Chestnuthill attack.

To Market Equals Record

Arcadia, Calif. (AP) — To Market equaled the Santa Anita track record for six furlongs yesterday in winning the Bixby park $7,500 Allowance Feature in 1:09.

Banana nose Eddie Arcaro was in the saddle as To Market tied the time of Mohammedan, established in February, 1951.

The heavily-backed To Market paid $4.80, $3.70 and $2.70 as he whipped Reigh's Bull, $8.10 and $4.80, and Vigorous, $2.90. Ten started.

The track was fast and has been improving daily since heavy rains of two weeks ago.

To Market was steadiest along when he was unable to keep up early. He rallied on the stretch turn, got through on the inside, but had to come out between horses to get racing room. Once clear Arcaro got him up and he wore down Reigh's Bull in the final sixteenth.

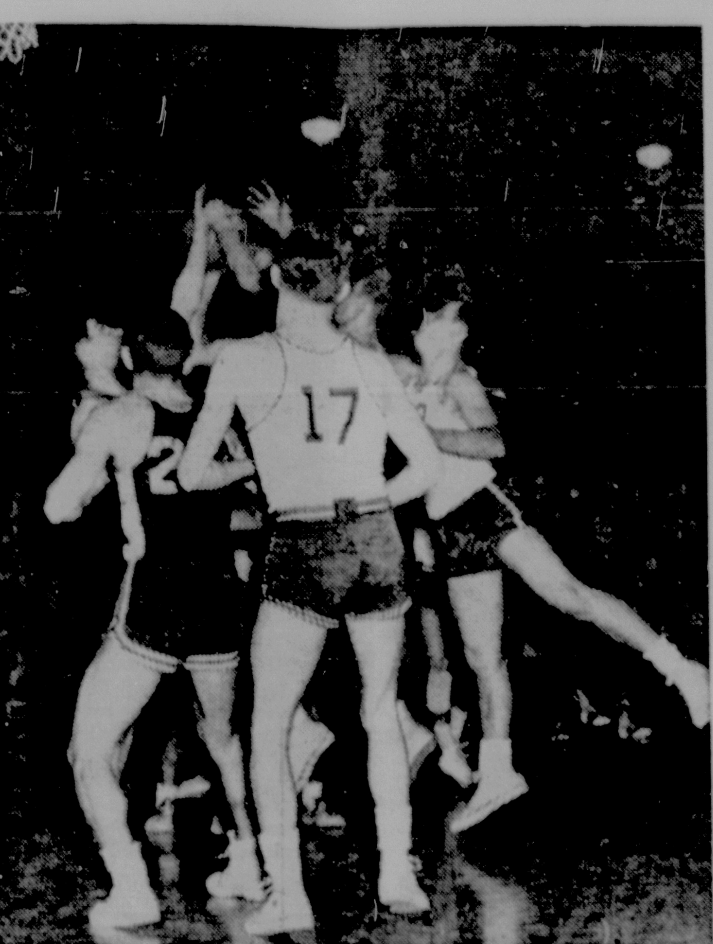

Indiana Names Head Grid Coach

Bloomington, Ind. (AP) — Indiana University got a new football coach yesterday. He is Bernard Anthony ("Bernie") Crimmins, a brown-haired Irishman from Louisville, Ky., who learned most of his football at Notre Dame.

Replacement
He will take the place of Clyde Smith, who resigned in mid-season last fall but carried on as coach until the season ended.

By Hugh Fullerton Jr.
Cincinnati (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic association voted yesterday to extend its controlled football television program for another year and at the same time cleared the way for exercising controls over other aspects of sports.

The overwhelming margin of 136 to 8, the delegates at the NCAA convention voted to accept the "middle of the road" program laid down for them in the report of the television committee headed by Tom Hamilton of the University of Pittsburgh.

TTHS Opens Quest For Third Title With Nod Over Pocono

Pocono Pines — Tobyhanna Township went in quest of its third straight Monroe County League basketball championship last night with a solid 50-33 victory over Pocono High, here on the TTHS hardwood. The maroon and gold color bearers made it a perfect night by also winning the junior varsity engagement, 34-24.

TTHS, using ten players, marched off to a lead of 10 points in the opening quarter, by virtue of the 19-9 score at the end of the first period.

However, Pocono fought its way back into consideration by holding a 9-8 edge in the second stanza and 11-10 advantage in the third period. However, TTHS reached the halfway mark on the long end of a 27-18 count and went into the final round leading by a 37-29 tabulation.

Different Story
Pocono's thoughts of victory were quickly changed to gloom in the last eight minutes of action, as the charges of Coach Carl Major ran up 13 counters while holding Pocono to four.

Jim "Cocky" Wilson, Fred Blakeslee and "Buddy" Judge led the defending title holder to victory, but it was Bob Hall, Pocono's center, who drew down top scoring honors for the game, coming up with 19 counters on eight field goals and a trio of foul shots.

TTHS made eight of 18 shots from the charity line, while Pocono could register only five conversions in the same number of trips to the black line.

Looking For Games

Hackettstown — The Hackettstown Sports, an independent basketball team, is looking for home and away games. The club has Monday, January 14; Monday, January 21; and Monday, January 28 open at home.

Interested parties are asked to contact Henry Tomalino, 170 Main St., Hackettstown, N. J., or call Hackettstown 190.

Further study of details could be made.

The council indicated that the presidents believed the NCAA could provide much of the machinery to enforce the strict controls they have advocated. And the NCAA delegates went right ahead with the task of strengthening this machinery.

Before tackling the big television problem, they established a new membership committee which will have power to discipline institutions which fail to maintain athletic standards required by the "conditions and obligations" of membership.

And they put teeth into the television control plan by passing

Barrett Quintet Launches Monroe County League Flag Race With Nod Over Coolbaugh

Second Half Rally Falls Short Of Mark

Canadians — Barrett, having suffered a pre-season defeat at the hands of Coolbaugh, played on a different note last night and launched the Monroe County League campaign with a 58-41 decision over the same Coolbaugh contingent, here on the winning team's home boards.

Coolbaugh saved some face by scoring a comfortable 31-22 victory over the Barrett yearlings in the preliminary contest.

Paul Gravel, Ken Krummell, subbing for the injured Roger Roan, and Ralph Williams pounded away at the Coolbaugh basket during the first eight minutes of action and pushed Barrett off to a commanding 19-7 lead at the end of the first round.

Close Scraps
However, Coolbaugh, with Al Rossick and Al Sapp carrying the brunt of the scoring load, fought its way back into the race by holding a 10-6 advantage during the second round. The turn of events enabled the Barrett charges of Coach Ed Kriner to leave the court at halftime still on the long end of the score, 25-17.

Barrett held the upper hand in the third and fourth round, and although the green and white color bearers tried desperately to turn the tide of battle in the last quarter, the home team went on to win with plenty to spare.

The Krinerman dominated the third round, 16-11, then came back to ice the game with a 17-15 edge in the final round.

Barrett made 10 of 16 shots from the foul line, while Coolbaugh found the range on 15 of 23 tosses from the same distance.

Gravel, with 21 points on ten field goals and one conversion from the charity line, led the Barrett attack, while Krummell and Williams chipped in with 17 and 14 respectively. Rossick and Sapp were the big guns in a losing cause with 11 and 16 tallies respectively.

Bangor Finishes Strong To Defeat Pen Argy's Cagers

Pen Argy — Bangor High brought home the bacon for the second time in the Lehigh-Northampton League this season last night with a 56-52 verdict over Pen Argy, here on the winning squad's home terrain.

The Pen Argy junior varsity won the preliminary tussle over Bangor, 33-30.

Closing Rush
With only one minute remaining in the game Asa Pysker drove in for a field goal for Bangor, giving the visiting five a 52-50 lead.

Wayne Pysker, a freshman, followed with another double-decker to give the Slaters a 54-50 edge.

However, Jim Lugg tallied from the floor for Pen Argy to make the count read 54-52, with the visitors on the long end of the count.

Bangor brought the ball in from out of bounds with only seconds remaining on the clock and a long pass down court resulted in a field goal for Bob Drexler, to account for the final margin of victory.

Castellani Suffers Double Loss In Garden

New York, (AP) — Manager Tommy Ryan was suspended on the spot and threatened with drastic punishment last night after he had slugged Referee Ray Miller in a riotous finish to the Ernie Durando-Rocky Castellani middleweight fight in Madison Square Garden.

Durando, a solid punching middleweight from Bayonne, N. J., came from far behind to stop Castellani of Teaneck, N. J., in 2:04 of the seventh round of their ten rounder witnessed by 5,799 fans and thousands of television viewers.

Bob Christenberry, chairman of the state athletic commission, immediately ordered Ryan's suspension and declared "I'll do everything in my power to see that he regrets creating such a disorderly scene."

Christenberry directed that Castellani's purse be held up and said a hearing would be held on the matter at the commission office next Friday morning.

Action
Only recently, Christenberry revoked the license of middleweight Rocky Compitello for slugging and kicking Referee Jack Appel.

Miller, a former crack lightweight, said he stopped the fight "because Castellani would have been hurt. You know how hard Durando can punch."

Miller was the referee last September when Willie Pep and Sandy Saddler staged their fiasco at the Polo Grounds. Pep had his license revoked by Christenberry and Saddler received two months suspension.

Ryan, when informed of Christenberry's statement, said "My license? When I see Christenberry in the morning I'll hit him in the mouth with it. That's what I think of the current boxing setup. I'm speaking loud so everybody can hear me."

Ryan complained bitterly that the ringside microphone was inaudible and that Castellani couldn't hear the count.

Castellani, himself, said "I didn't hear the count and I wasn't hurt. I asked the referee to please not stop the fight. I was surprised when he did. I thought the round was over."

Student Publication Reports Former Palmerton High Court Star Receiving "Freeze" From Temple University Teammates

By Ralph Bernstein
Philadelphia (AP)—Some members of Temple University's basketball team yesterday were accused of freezing out their All-America captain Bill Mikky and attempting to discredit coach Josh Cody.

The university's student edited newspaper, "The Temple News," carried a story charging that Mikky has been "the victim of one of the biggest doublecrosses since the day Benedict Arnold sold out his country."

"A group of players on the Owl squad have decided that they will do everything in their power to make this Coach Josh Cody's poorest season in years, hoping that this, coupled with last year's criticism of the team, will result in a new coaching regime," the story said.

Individual Temple players were unavailable for comment on the charges.

A university spokesman said Mikky had no comment on the story.

Cody said he had not "sensed any disloyalty on the part of my players to myself as coach." He declined to comment on the Mikky angle.

Mikky, the "Owl" without a vowel, was the nation's leading scorer last season when he established a new intercollegiate record of 29.2 points a game. He scored 731 points, was second in the nation in assists and rebounds, was named to the Associated Press All America team. Recently he was named as the outstanding college basketball player of 1950-51 by a national magazine.

This season, the six foot four native of Palmerton has averaged only 13.3 points per game, scoring 152 points—still enough to lead the Temple squad which has won four, lost seven games.

The biggest basketball question around here for some time has been: "What's wrong with Bill Mikky?"

Nothing, says the Temple news, that a little cooperation from his "teammates wouldn't cure."

The news' article said: "One has to be blind to let go unnoticed the humiliation Mikky has suffered because some of his 'teammates' have played against him and at the same time are disappointing their followers."

Defeat

"Some 1,300 court followers saw the Owls lose to LaSalle Tuesday night at Convention Hall as Mikky was 'held' to seven points," Mikky was 'held' in that game as in the ten others Temple has played because some teammates saw to it that Bill didn't get the ball."

LaSalle won, 75-59.

The articles went on to say that the group involved "has no desire whatsoever to play winning or honorable basketball for their school." It said flatly that their aim was to get rid of Cody, whose Temple teams in the past nine years have won 115 and lost 88.

In the recent LaSalle game, Bill took nine shots and made three field goals. While he was passed up by teammates on numerous occasions, he several times refused to shoot when the opportunity presented itself. One reliable source said the star has been so upset by the treatment from his teammates that he just won't shoot.

Top Talent In Professional Ranks To Clash At Los Angeles

Los Angeles (AP)—The 1951 football season has lapped well over into the New Year, but interest is keen and a hectic game is in prospect when the finest professionals in the National Football League hook up in the second annual pro-bowl battle in Memorial Coliseum today.

Good Skiing Reported For Weekend

Skiing conditions in the Pocono Mountains were reported as good at all points last night, with a possibility of more snow falling this afternoon.

Ski-top last night reported three inches of new powdered snow on a base of four to six inches. Skiing at this resort was reported very good. Skiing and tobogganing were also listed as very good.

Major Resorts

Other major resorts in the area, such as Pocono Manor Inn, Buck Hill Falls, Split Rock, Skyline Inn and Onawa Lodge, list the skiing as good. Big Pocono ski run also reports skiing conditions as good.

Skiing, ice skating and tobogganing are also reported good in the resorts that feature these sports.

Last night's early weather report predicted light rain or snow this afternoon or tonight.

Stanford Even Forgets Uniforms

Pasadena, Calif. (AP)—Yesterday—ten days after disaster overtook Stanford in the Rose Bowl—Pasadena parks superintendent Henry Garwood reported that Stanford uniforms still hung limp in the dressing room.

Equipment

In fact, Garwood told city manager Don C. McMillan, the whole darned lockerroom is still full of Stanford equipment.

Garwood said he realized Stanford was in a hurry to get out of the bowl after the 40-7 beating by Illinois, but he figured the Indians might have recovered by now.

Industrial League Rolls

Three matches are on tap for the Industrial League at Harmon's alleys today. Schedule follows:

Alleys one and two—Hughes vs Brookdale.

Alleys three and four—Tucker vs Penn Hills.

Alleys five and six—Line Material vs Art Metal.

Skating Star Honies Report

Houston (AP)—Sonja Henie laughingly denied yesterday reports she was the person interested in backing a heavy-weight title fight between Jersey Joe Walcott and Harry "Kid" Matthews of Los Angeles.

"No, it isn't true," she said. "I have enough on my hands with my own show."

Guarantee

Walcott, the champion, said Wednesday in Camden, N. J., he has offered $250,000 and half the television receipts for the battle, adding a great female movie star" made the offer.

The Seattle Times said Thursday Miss Henie was the person interested in backing the show.

Miss Henie, here with her ice show, said she didn't know how the report got started she might want to back a fight.

Minor Cases Taken Before County Court

A short session of Monroe county court was held yesterday afternoon with President Judge Fred W. Davis and Homer Shupp, associate, on the bench. All that came before the court was a number of minor petitions.

Judge Clarence E. Bodie, Wayne county, had planned to hear argument in the land damage suit of Hartman vs. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, but he was unable to make the trip because of illness. No new date for the argument was announced.

College degrees are held by 42 per cent of U. S. Army officers, according to Army records.

Schmidt Foresees Limited Road Construction In 1952

Atlantic City, N. J. (AP)—The acting head of Pennsylvania's Highway department said yesterday road construction will be limited in 1952 because of inflation and the lack of funds.

E. L. Schmidt, acting secretary, disclosed the policy at the annual convention of the Associated Pennsylvania Contractors here.

At the same time, Schmidt echoed the feelings of his predecessor, the late Ray F. Smock, that the two-cent Federal gasoline tax revert to the state from which it is collected for use by the state.

"Why pay for the service of collecting Federal taxes and then pay for the distribution of these same taxes to individual states in the form of Federal aid? It would be much simpler and more economical if the states collect this tax themselves and use it for construction," Schmidt said.

This was Schmidt's first major address since being appointed acting secretary by Gov. John S. Fine after Smock's death in November.

Turning to road construction, Schmidt said 1,861 miles of road were completed by the department in 1951.

But he pointed out that 1952 will not see any expanded program of road construction because of "diminishing receipts of gasoline taxes, additional costs of maintenance and operation of the highway system due to inflated prices of material."

He said the cash balance of $9,574,000 in the motor license fund at the end of the year was the lowest since the depression and was brought on by inflation.

He also read a statement of policy which Smock completed writing on the day of his death. In it, the late official contended that if the states were allowed to collect the tax now gathered by the Federal government more than 20 million dollars additional would be made available for expenditure on road construction.

Smock declared in the article the Highway department would continue its construction plans for the future as long as materials are available.

Realty Tax Headed For Court Test

Harrisburg (AP)—Pennsylvania's new one per cent real estate transfer tax appeared headed last night for a series of court tests.

The State Revenue department said the law is not clear as to whether the buyer or seller must pay the tax.

The constitutionality of the new levy, effective Feb. 1, already has been questioned.

Milton E. Strouse, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Realtors association, said the measure "usurps" a power given to the State's local governments by the 1947 Legislature.

The new real estate levy will produce an estimated $24 million in additional State revenues during the next two years. It is part of the 1951 Legislature's 113 million "patchwork" tax program.

Strouse said that 143 communities have the same power to levy a real estate tax similar to the new statewide law which brings up the question of double taxation. Double taxation is prohibited in Pennsylvania under the Constitution.

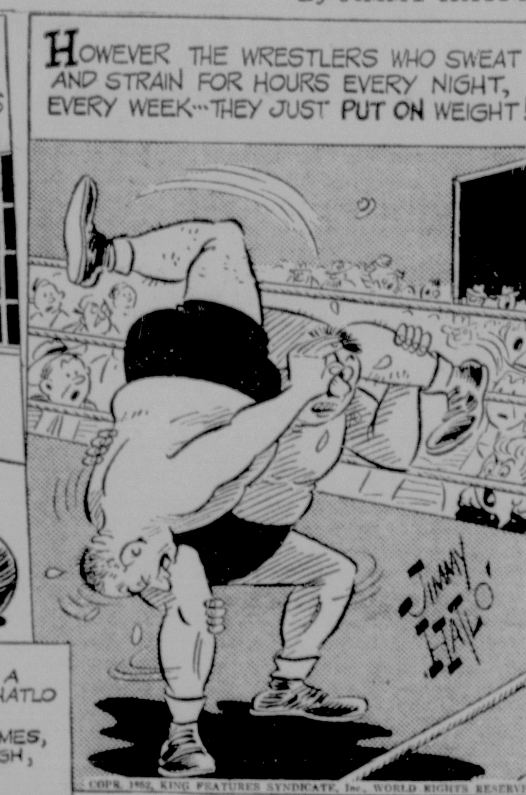

However, Attorney General Robert E. Woodside has taken the stand that both taxes are compatible and the question of double taxation is non-existent.

The Revenue department meanwhile said that until the matter of who must pay the new one per cent real estate transfer tax is settled, it will get around the question by requiring county recorders of deeds to demand payment of the tax from whom ever presents properly deeds for recording.

County recorders of deeds have been designated by the revenue department as the official collection agents for the tax. They will be allowed to retain an amount equal to one-half of one per cent of the total tax collected on property they handle annually.

There are only three exemptions to the tax. They are transfers between husband and wife, transfers between a parent and child, and leases.

Pocono Lions Arrange For Charter Night

Pocono Summit — Arrangements for the annual charter night banquet of Pocono Lions club were furthered at a meeting held in Johnnie's inn here this week. E. Rodger Miller presided.

The affair will be held January 23. Tickets may be purchased from the chairman, Franklin Smith, Pocono Lake.

Club members voted to hold regular meetings on alternate Wednesday nights, during the Winter, instead of Tuesday night.

Club Schedules First Rehearsal

The Junior Music Study club will hold its first rehearsal for the spring concert tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. at East Stroudsburg Lutheran church.

All members are urged to attend.

Here is a prominent little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked numbers give you.

SPCA Buys Stroud Site For Shelter

The Monroe County Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has secured a definite site for the location of a shelter, one of the main objectives for a number of years. It will be located on the property formerly owned by the late Harry B. Heller, near the Wild Animal farm in Stroud township.

The deed covering the transfer of the property by Jeannie Drain and Mary E. Haug, of Philadelphia, to the SPCA was filed at the office of Floyd Butz, register and recorder at the court house yesterday afternoon. There is a large frame dwelling on the site covering three acres and 120 perches of land.

The property secured by the SPCA is second from the Wild Animal farm and within easy reach of Stroudsburg.

Officers of the organization said yesterday afternoon that a shelter of concrete blocks and runways must be provided before it can be put into practical use. Inasmuch as added funds are necessary for the construction, they could not say when this work would be done.

A representative of the SPCA said the group was overrun with requests to care for cats and dogs but, because of the lack of a shelter, the animals could not be accommodated at this time.

In another deed filed, Otis C. and Clara J. Alger, of Pocono township, transferred a small strip of 29 acres in that township to Albert and Beatrice Besocke, also Pocono Twp. It is part of the former Arthur J. Christman property.

Paul Dennis One Of Stars To Show Here

Paul Dennis, one of leading American bass-baritones will appear at the All Star Variety show on January 16 at the Stroudsburg High school auditorium, under the sponsorship of Temple Israel.

Mr. Dennis has appeared in many of the leading opera companies and has concertized his way across the land, receiving many plaudits.

His story is an interesting one. The son of the late great Josef Rosenblatt, cantor and concert singer of world renown, Dennis decided early in his career that he would not have it said that he was capitalizing on his father's reputation and changed his concert name accordingly.

Under the name of Paul Dennis he made an almost immediate success as an opera singer. There can be no doubt however that the quality of his famous forebear's voice has been inherited by the son because when Toscanini made his now historic coast to coast broadcast of La Traviata over the NBC networks, he chose Dennis to sing a leading role along with Jan Peerce.

Mr. Dennis has often been heard on the radio and has been a member of the New York City Center Opera Co. and has appeared as soloist at the Radio City Music hall.

Mr. Kintner spoke on "Enthusiasm."

Survey Corps Confines Work To Route 611

A Pennsylvania Department of Highways corps has completed a full week's work on a survey of the Foxtown Hill road and its proposed connection with the approach to the new 2,500-foot bridge across the Delaware River at Delaware Water Gap.

So far, work has been confined to Route 611 from the curve entering Delaware Water Gap at the Water Gap Cemetery to the curve at Morningside and Park Aves. in Stroudsburg.

Observers said the crew has not gone off this route with survey work, and that their work seems to center around gathering survey data for another lane on the road over Foxtown Hill.

Prior to taking up this survey, the crew did one on the road from Paradise Valley to the intersection of Route 90 at the Hickory Valley farm store.

The Foxtown Hill road survey is rated a "hot job", indicating that State Highway Department includes fraternal organizations which sell insurance to their members.

The State Justice department announced some time ago that the new two per cent tax on insurance premiums will not affect distribution of the out-of-state insurance tax revenue to local municipalities.

The law originally removed the exemption of beneficial societies, mutual fire, casualty and marine insurance companies located in Pennsylvania and some life insurance firms from the payment of the tax.

This act was quickly amended by the 1951 Legislature, however, to restore the exemption of beneficial societies. The latter group
